ABOUT FUZJI: A new development built on the site of the former Karol Scheibler factory. It comprises 20 mixed-use buildings, 14 of which are adapted historic buildings. Its heart is a restored Art Nouveau power plant and the adjacent town square (with a playground, a rollerblading area, and a meeting and walk space for residents).

Location of the estate: Center of Łódź - between Piotrkowska, Tymienieckiego, Kilińskiego and Milionowa streets.

ESTATE: Fuzja - modern living in the heart of Łódź, a new, vibrant urban space on Milionowa Street, created for those who want to live, work, and relax in one place. This unique project combines historic architecture with modern style and functionality.

The development will feature four residential buildings with over 600 units, offices covering approximately 40,000 m², and service spaces, shops, and restaurants in restored, post-industrial buildings. The surrounding area will include urban squares, green spaces, and relaxation zones, covering 4 hectares. The overall effect is unique - industrial, yet welcoming and modern.

Fuzja is an ideal location for young people - close to Piotrkowska Street, OFF Piotrkowska, universities (University of Lodz, Lodz University of Technology), trendy cafes, gyms, and co-working spaces. Residents can count on a full infrastructure: bike paths, electric car chargers, parcel lockers, car sharing, and bike repair stations.

The neighborhood is bustling with city life, but also offers plenty of space for relaxation. Within walking distance are Źródlińska Park with its Palm House, atmospheric streets lined with galleries and boutiques, and numerous meeting places and cultural events. This space inspires both activity and relaxation in its green surroundings.

This is a place that combines lifestyle with comfort.
